

Music For A Romantic Rendezvous

Compilation by Reid Collier. Copyright © 2014 by Larry Reid Collier. All rights reserved. Small quantities may be copied for the purpose of sharing with family and friends, and such copies shall be free of charge and without any form of compensation, including compensation for materials, labor, management and other similar efforts.

This feature is a music list of 30 Rock & Roll songs which are specifically selected to provide background music for an intimate, romantic rendezvous. The intent of this rendezvous concerns two mature adults who have grown beyond the immature state of adolescence and the effects of the IBOY Factor (the Impulsive Behavior of Youth Factor). I'm talking about two mature adults who have thoughtfully considered, reflected and finally decided to become Soul Mates and Life Mates. Accordingly, these two loving sentient human beings have Committed themselves, have Dedicated themselves, and have Devoted themselves to living together until death do they part. I personally define this ultimate choice the CDD Principle. Consequently, these two truly loving beings mutually serve one another in all ways and manners, for better or for worse, and in sickness or in health. This is a love-bond that cannot be broken except by death. Needless to say, this relationship is a very spiritual relationship whose meaning and pleasures far exceed mankind's physical experiences. In their sexual relationship, these lovers are actively involved in the comingling of their bodies and their souls. Never underestimate the meaning, the power, and the pleasures (spiritual and physical) of mankind's sexual essence and nature. Soulfully give thanks to your gracious, benevolent and loving Creator for designing and constructing mankind (male and female) in a manner that's so incredibly satisfying and fulfilling. Lastly, realize this aspect of life represents the Union Organism which is solidly founded upon Union Love. Note that the Union Organism actively involves you, me and we, and where all three elements are given equal concern and value. All relationships are founded upon either Union Love or Confederate Love. It's sad to say that in America the majority of relationships are founded upon Confederate Love, thus always having the option to secede from the relationship. What good is love if it's not forever? I hope the reader enjoys the music list, finds value in this message, and will take the time to stop, think, reflect and ponder upon the truths of the message. The ultimate quest is for the reader to internalize the CDD Principle in conjunction with their ultimate decision to love their gracious Creator (Godly Love) and their fellow sentient brothers and sisters (Brotherly Love).

In conjunction with this music list are two essays. The first essay is entitled "The Terrestrial Sex Drive" and the second essay is entitled "The Tragic Practice of Massive Abortion." These are provided to establish the moral framework by which the music list is presented.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

Music For A Romantic Rendezvous

1. Hot! Hot! Hot! Buster Poindexter
2. Hot Stuff Donna Summer
3. Let's Get It On Marvin Gaye
4. Tonight's The Night Rod Stewart
5. If I Said You Had A Beautiful Body,
Would You Hold It Against Me? The Bellamy Brothers
6. Da Ya Think I'm Sexy? Rod Stewart
7. Fever Peggy Lee
8. The Look Of Love Dusty Springfield
9. One In A Million You Larry Graham
10. Baby, Come To Me James Ingram
11. Hold Me, Thrill Me, Kiss Me Mel Carter
12. The Way You Look Tonight Rod Stewart
13. I'm So Excited. The Pointer Sisters
14. Can't Get Enough Of Your Love, Babe Barry White
15. Je T'Aime Moi Non Plus Birkin & Gainsbourg
16. Slow Hand The Pointer Sisters
17. I'm Gonna Love You Just A Little More Barry White
18. On The Wings Of Love Jeffrey Osborne
19. Sexual Healing Marvin Gaye
20. With You I'm Born Again Billy Preston & Syreeta
21. One Hundred Ways James Ingram
22. I Believe In You And Me The Four Tops
23. Fields Of Gold Sting
24. The Sweetest Days Vanessa Williams
25. Sometimes When We Touch Rod Stewart
26. Never My Love The Association
27. You And Me Against The World Paul Williams
28. Never, Never Gonna Give You Up Barry White
29. Have I Told You Lately Rod Stewart
30. Unchained Melody Alex North

Essay #1

The Terrestrial Sex Drive

Mankind's sex drive is the second most powerful force in terrestrial life, especially for the male gender. The only stronger drive is the drive to live; that is, the drive to survive. However, there are many people who say they would rather be dead if they couldn't have sex. The pleasures of sex are extremely powerful and significantly affect you physically, emotionally, psychologically and spiritually. And of course, the power and nature of sex can be either proactive or conactive. Sex can be very good and creative, or it can be very evil and destructive. There are proper, natural, moral, and mutually selfless acts of sex, and there are improper, unnatural, immoral, and ultra selfish acts of sex; or in other words, the lust for sex. There's the sentient sexual act between two mature adults that's the soulful making of love. And there's the animalistic, sexual act that's purely sexual copulation; or in other words, sexual lust and conactive love. The purely terrestrial sexual act of copulation is not the ethereal substance of "making love." The true act of making love is the comingling of the body and the soul, and it's based upon the long-term responsibilities and privileges of true, sincere and genuine love between two life partners who are also life mates. The act of copulation is self-absorbing and is limited to the moment, or at best, a short period of time that's laden with provisional conditions; or in other words, laden with conditional love. In contrast, a sexual relationship founded upon unconditional love is uplifting. A sexual relationship founded upon conditional love always leaves a sensation of soulful deficiency. It's the responsibility of all citizens to exercise socially responsible sexual relationships that provide the maximum good for the individual and the collective as a whole.

Except for very rare circumstances, everyone physically needs the fulfillment of the human sex drive. This is part of mankind's biological design and creation. The truth is almost everyone is highly sexually driven; or in other words, almost everyone gets "horny." Some people say men are always sexually driven while the woman's sexual drive is a function of her menstrual cycle. Every husband dreads his wife's PMS stage while he sincerely thanks heaven for her ovulation stage. And this we know for sure. The power of sex can be very healthy and beneficial, or it can be very unhealthy and detrimental, the latter being the results of sexual degradation and depravation. In addition, the collective power of sex affects societies and nations. If the nation's collective desires its citizens to be happy and healthy, then sexual relationships must be morally and soulfully exercised. The well-being of the nation is truly dependent upon the socially responsible exercise of proactive sexual relationships.

1. Socially Responsible, Proactive Sexual Relationships: Where true-love reigns, then proactive sex and loyalty are interwoven within the relationship; and therefore, the relationship becomes a mutually rewarding, healthy and stabilizing marital power. This type of relationship is built upon a loving and moral foundation. Accordingly, a healthy sexual relationship founded upon true, sincere and genuine love is a very significant factor in building a happy and healthy marriage. This successful marriage then creates a happy and healthy family. In turn, the collective of happy and healthy marriages and families create a happy and healthy society.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

2. Socially Irresponsible, Conactive Sexual Relationships: When antilove and conactive sex are interwoven within a relationship, then loyalty is nonexistent and the relationship eventually crumbles because it lacks the loving and moral foundation that's absolutely necessary to sustain a relationship. Accordingly, an unhappy and unhealthy sexual relationship founded upon antilove creates an unhappy and unhealthy relationship. In turn, the unhappy and unhealthy relationship then creates an unhappy and unhealthy family. As a collective force, the unhappy and unhealthy families then create an unhappy and unhealthy society. In addition, socially irresponsible sexual relationships include those momentary relationships where the person is on the prowl for sexual conquest. And often associated with sexual conquest is psychological conquest, which literally enslaves a person. Where psychological conquest grows, physical and emotional brutality also plants their seeds.
3. The Detriments of Sexual Lust: Conactive sex is the focal point of many conactive social issues such as pornography, prostitution, rape, pedophilia, sexual abuse, adultery, teenage pregnancy, abortion, sexual enslavement, and other associated sexual topics. And of course, rapists and pedophiles create extreme sexual degradation and depravation, whereby these perpetrators create traumatized victims whose souls may never fully heal. Furthermore, the social collective becomes sexually depraved when a significant portion of the society elects to exercise sexual lust. Beyond any doubt, conactive sex is a major player in life's dark side. All individuals and society as a whole must always be on guard against the temptations of sexual lust. Sexual lust has a steep and slippery slope that quickly snares many victims into the bondage of sexual addiction. You must consistently avoid sexually potential situations that offer seemingly harmless temptations. Beware the beguiled seduction of sexual trappings and lust.

Finally, you have to appreciate the power of sex because of its association with the power and mystery of life. The potential consequence of sex is life itself; thus, terrestrial sex is one of the most powerful forces in life. Life is a great responsibility, and being responsible for the life of another person is a monumental responsibility. When you're truly ready in life to have a child – being intellectually, emotionally, psychologically and financially prepared and ready – then having a child is a tremendous blessing. Even then, having a child has an element of burden that constantly sucks your energy, time, money, and other life interests. And naturally, the more children you have, then greater is the burden. The greatest sacrifice in life is to be a constantly loving and caring parent. But, if your heart and soul are the fertile soil of love, then having and raising children are the greatest pleasures and the greatest blessings a sentient human being can experience. Now, imagine how difficult life is if you have a child and you're not even ready and capable of taking care of yourself. It's extremely rare to find a teenage mother who is not overwhelmed and distraught from the burdens of motherhood. The same is true regarding teenage fathers who take responsibility for their sexual consequences. Unfortunately, most teenage fathers fail to stay involved with their little bundle of constant needs. Herein lays the anatomy of a dead-beat dad. And this we know for sure. The active and consistent practice of sexual abstinence is extremely wise and leads to a much happier life in the long-term. Unfortunately, few people have the self-discipline to practice sexual abstinence.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

History has proven the collective social issue of sex must always be exercised in proper moderation that's built upon a loving and moral foundation, and in a manner that's always socially responsible. The extreme, conactive social responses to sex – being either the adverse suppression of sexual pleasures or the unbridled, lustful pursuit of sexual pleasures – always prove to be detrimental to individuals, families and societies. As individuals and as a society, we must always make sure the power of sex is exercised in a proper, moderate, loving and moral manner. At stake are your personal happiness, your spouse's happiness, your children's happiness, and the happiness of your country.

Essay # 2

The Tragic Practice of Massive Abortion

This is going to be a very difficult discussion, and I know I'll stir painful emotions for many people, especially women who have had an abortion. It's not my desire to inflict emotional pain upon anyone, and I know our Creator's love bears all soulful inflictions. Please have faith and patience so you may persevere until you grasp the nature of my disposition. For me personally, abortion concerns two profound issues. First, abortion is an issue of true, sincere and genuine love; that is, Cosmic Love. Ultimately, love isn't everything. It's the only thing! Second, abortion is a moral issue. What is right is right, and what is wrong is wrong. Love is right, and abortion is wrong. Who'll stand and defend the most vulnerable of precious life-forms? Only the mighty Knights of Love come forward to the defense of all sentient human beings, especially those who are growing and waiting to be born.

As with most moral issues, if not all moral issues, there are always two paths a person can choose. There's the easy path of immorality, and then there's the hard and rocky path of morality. I sense deep within my heart too many women readily choose the easy path because it's the easy way out. And in the short-term it probably is the easiest resolution to their dilemma.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

But in the long-term, I fear they'll experience much grief – first, grief in the terrestrial world and then more grief in the world-to-come. Also, I know abortion is a great grievance to the Lord of Life, for the Lord of Life is the essence and nature of all life. But again I say, have faith. All things work to good for those who truly, sincerely and genuinely love their Creator.

Now, the choice of abortion has become a permanent element of life, and abortion will never again become outlawed in a democratic nation. The option of making abortion illegal is considered to be a greater detriment than the great cosmic sadness that's generated by the practice of massive abortion. Truly, no one wants to return to the private devastations of back alley abortion practices. Nevertheless, the degradation and depravation of the practice of massive abortion must be addressed, and the alternate choice for love's power and glory must be clearly presented. The heart of the abortion issue resides in a single question. When does sentient human life begin? Here are my personal reflections regarding the full spectrum of abortion. Please carefully consider my personal reflections, keeping your hearts and minds objectively open and receptive to the Cosmic Truth and the guiding love of our Lord of Life.

1. Life Begins at the Moment of Conception: I earnestly, respectfully and adamantly believe sentient human life is a cosmic event that's patiently waiting for the opportunity of corporeal life-actualization. In other words, as soon as a woman's single cell egg is fertilized by the man's single cell sperm, the ethereal spark of our Celestial Father joins the newly formed life-cell, and this God-human union is a symbiotic relationship. If the cell is left to its own natural course – that is, if it's not aborted by the natural process of miscarriage (which is now called “spontaneous abortion”) or the unnatural process of induced abortion – then the cell will naturally develop through the multiple stages of the prenatal growth process. Eventually, a precious, celestial-potential sentient human being is born – this new person being a true child of our gracious, benevolent and loving Creator.
2. Let Your Errors of Belief not Harm You: Now, some people earnestly, respectfully and adamantly believe sentient human life is not a cosmic event, but instead is a natural terrestrial event that's totally independent of a Creator type being. Of course, these are terrestrials who respectively reject the living reality of mankind's Creator. Furthermore, a celestial cannot prove our Creator exists, and a terrestrial cannot prove our Creator does not exist. From the perspective of the terrestrial realm, all elements of mankind's spirituality are a matter of personal belief. But wouldn't it be better to err on the conservative side which has the smallest potential to cause you misfortunate, pain and suffering. If you believe in the reality of your Creator but He really doesn't exist, then all you've done is lived a spiritually based life that has served you very well during your brief life span here on planet earth. On the other hand, if you reject the reality of your Creator but He really does exist, then what are you going to do? I believe this is what's going to happen. Your omniscient Creator is going to ask you three very important questions.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

Question #1: Seek and you shall find me. Wayward child of mine, why didn't you seek me so you could find me?

Question #2: Be still and know that I am. Wayward child of mine, why didn't you still your spirit so you could sense me?

Question #3: Look deep within your soul and find your spiritual intuition. Wayward child, why didn't you use your spiritual intuition to commune with me?

People of faith from all around the world know deep within their being that mankind's Creator does exist and He actively wants to be a part of the life of each one of His children. True, sincere and genuine prayer and meditation will provide spiritual experiences that confirm and validate the living reality of your Creator. You only need internal spiritual motivation to realize this great Cosmic Truth.

- The First Battle of Abortion: The first battle over abortion is the battle for the control of the mind. Know this great truth. Abortion can only flourish if the battle for the control of the mind is first lost to antitruth and antilove. Accordingly, those who truly love their patient and kind Creator must be mighty Advocates of Love, and they must actively encourage their sentient brothers and sisters to allow love to prevail over the practice of massive abortion. While all life is consecrated, all sentient human life is sacred. The sacredness of sentient human beings applies equally to our Creator's unborn children as well as His born children. Therefore, the sacredness of the Lord of Life's unborn children must be advanced. The life of the unborn child must not only be respected, it must also be honored. Who's there to protect and defend the lives of the unborn children? Only our Creator's mighty Advocates of Love. That's who!
- The Practice of Massive Abortion: Let's examine the practice of massive abortion as defined on the Guttmacher Institute's web site. In America today, there are about 1,300,000 abortions each year. In the entire world, there are about 42,000,000 abortions each year. These are staggering quantities that are difficult and painful to grasp. Furthermore, these quantities rival and exceed the efforts of the German Nazi practices of genocide during World War II. If all the abortions of America occurred in a single clinic, then the clinic would be called the Auschwitz Abortion Clinic. How has it become so easy and so preferred to disregard The Laws of Life and Accountability, The Law of Love, and The Law of Creativity? It's a very sad thing to realize that the practice of massive abortion has become just an extreme form of contraception. And I know many of the proponents of Women's Rights feel this same way. No loving and mature person wants the massive loss of human life which is now an embarrassing reality of abortion in America. The social privilege to have abortions is predicated upon socially responsible actions and services founded upon real human needs and not capricious whims of self-gratifying indulgence and selfish convenience. The quantities of abortion in America are a really grave tragedy of the ideals and principles of Democracy – the land of the brave and the land of the free, except for the preborn citizen.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

5. Be a Sexually Responsible Person: It's every citizen's obligation to exercise socially responsible sexual relationships. As one of the primary elements of being sexually responsible, one must only have sexual relationships with the predetermined commitment to embrace and lovingly support the potential consequences of conception. It's every citizen's duty to find socially responsible methods that selflessly fulfill their sexual desires and needs. If you're not willing to embrace and lovingly support a child (and this applies especially to men as well as women), then abstain from having sexual intercourse, or pursue appropriate and very highly effective methods that prevent contraception. This includes having medical procedures that prevent fertilization, these being tubal ligations for women and vasectomies for men. However, all methods of birth control have a chance of failure, especially birth control pills and similar methods. Therefore, a sexually responsible person must always be ready to accept the potential of conception. To fail to be sexually and socially responsible is to demonstrate that you're insensitive, indifferent and callous to the beauty and sacredness of life. In such a state of depraved being, all who come to know you will realize you're neither concerned about others nor do you really care about others. Your state of being will be a state of antilove, and your antilove will be readily perceived by everyone. Accordingly, to reject love and life is to reject your loving Creator, and that's a truly sad state of being. Why would anyone choose to be a reprobate to the Lord of Life?

Sensitivity for Women Who Truly Need an Abortion

Now, I know there are many extenuating circumstances that lead to a woman's final decision to choose abortion over the birth of an unwanted child. Sometimes there are hard realities that must be faced, and sometimes there are undesirable compromises that forge only one viable solution. And that one solution is still an undesirable condition. Too often in our terrestrial world we're forced to choose between the lesser of two evils. Surely and truly, you have to wonder what is the worst case condition: (1) to have an abortion and thus offend the sacredness of life and disregard the intentional will of our loving Creator, or (2) to bring an unwanted child into a loveless, stressful and hostile environment that will highly likely create a loveless adult.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

I personally believe the choice for an abortion is totally justifiable in cases where the pregnancy was caused by a vicious and violent act of antilove, such as rape or incest. I believe if the mother's life is at risk, then abortion is also a reasonable choice. In addition, I believe abortion is reasonable in cases when there are too many embryos in the mother's womb. This frequently happens when fertility drugs are used in the pursuit of conception. This is technically called "selective abortion." There are other good reasons for the support of abortion, but many of these reasons are subject to debate. The issue of abortion is saturated with personal subjective preferences and choices, and this is especially true for economically and socially disadvantaged women.

Again I say, life is a very difficult struggle, but the challenges of life are far greater for the disadvantaged citizen. But in comparison, consider all the couples who desperately yearn for a child because they're unable to have children. Being sensitive to the needs of disadvantaged citizens, America in a solidary effort must actively promote love and life over abortion, and thus respect and honor the sacredness of life as well as fulfill the intentional will of our Lord of Life. Our Creator has shown His children the benchmark of His intentional will, and our Creator's love for His children allows His children to bend and twist His intentional will until our Creator's circumstantial will is revealed. But in the end, our loving Creator's ultimate will shall always prevail. In response to our love for our Creator, we as a People must greatly reduce this massive quantity of annual abortions. Truly I say to you, the practice of massive abortion is a disgrace to the ideal principles of American Democracy, for the five pillars of Democracy are brotherly love, morality, tolerance, self-discipline, and the will to sacrifice for a higher cause and the greater good. Surely and truly, the practice of massive abortion is directly confrontational with the pillars of American Democracy. Who's going to protect and serve our Creator's unborn children?

Abortion Statistics and the IBOY Factor

Here are some interesting statistics that were defined on the Guttmacher Institute's web site.

1. About 22% of all pregnancies are terminated by an induced abortion. (Is it realistically possible to reduce this percentage to 5%?)
2. About 18% of all abortions are by teenagers.
3. About 50% of all abortions are by women who are in their twenties.
4. About 50% of all pregnancies are unintended, and about 40% of these pregnancies are terminated by an induced abortion.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

5. About 37% of women having an abortion identify themselves as Protestant, and about 28% of women having an abortion identify themselves as Catholic.
6. About 45% of women having an abortion have never been married and are not cohabiting.
7. About 61% of women having an abortion have one or more children.
8. About 42% of women having an abortion have financial incomes that are below the federal poverty level.
9. What are the predominant reasons women give for having an abortion? About three-fourths of the women having an abortion cite: (1) concerns and responsibilities for other individuals, (2) they cannot afford a child, and (3) having a child would interfere with work, school or the ability to care for other dependents. About one-half of the women having an abortion cite: (1) they don't want to be a single parent, and (2) they're having domestic problems with their husband or partner.

Based upon the above statistics, 68% of all abortions are by girls and women whose age range is 13 years old to 29 years old. (See items 2 and 3.) These disturbing statistics make me wonder. Why do so many young girls so desperately desire to be married and to have babies, especially when they know having a baby will monopolize their time, their money, their sleep, and their life energy? Considering the early age of these girls and young women, this period of youth is a time when the body quickly matures and develops into its adult stage. However, a person's intellectual, volitional and emotional attributes usually take much longer to mature. Furthermore, it's well established that the process of youth contains an element that tends to be impulsive, irrational, overly emotional, sometimes destructive, and may be profoundly foolish. I personally call this misguided nature of youth the "IBOY Factor." "IBOY" is an acronym for "impulsive behavior of youth." A great Wiseman once addressed the IBOY Factor this way: "When I was a child, I used to speak as a child, think as a child, and reason as a child. When I became a man, I did away with childish things." For a person who truly and fully matures, there comes a moment in their life when they intellectually, willfully and emotionally do away with childish things. The sooner a youth confronts this great moment of "self-willed intentional being," then the better off he or she shall be.

In America, we have an unwritten social standard regarding the training of our youth who are in preparation for adulthood. In general, this training begins at about the age of 13 years old and it continues until about the age of 25 years old. The automobile insurance industry actually sets the higher limit of this age period. I personally define the youths during this age period as "Adults in Training," and I abbreviate the phrase as "AiT." So, if you're a young person who's in the age range between 13 years old to 25 years old, then you're an AiT; that is, an Adult in Training. Note that these are the most volatile years our youth are subject to impulsive behavior; that is, when our youth are primarily subject to the IBOY Factor.

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

Now, AiT training is highly informal, and it's never formally recognized. But I truly believe we should have a formal element for properly training our youth and for recognizing this very important age period. It should also be noted this AiT training usually comes in the form of "loving guidance" from the various adults who are part of the AiT's life. This informal guidance comes from parents and grandparents, from the extended family and especially uncles and aunts who are emotionally close to the AiT, from schools and religious affiliations, from the court systems and police departments, from other organizations that specifically include character building (organized sports, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Big Brothers, Big Sisters and other similar organizations), and from many other sources. Truly and surely, America deeply loves their youth, and we as a collective actively desire the very best for all of them. My young fellow AiT citizens, please take note of this great love for you, and closely observe all that is being done for you.

Because adults have already experienced the IBOY Factor and had to go through this same maturing process, we as a collective tend to tolerate, and even expect, the tomfoolery of youth. The Amish are famous for how they allow their youth to experience, cope and resolve this natural human experience of the IBOY Factor. After all, everyone has sown some wild oats at least once in their life. And in our own youth, we all did silly and stupid things that we really knew we shouldn't do, but we did them anyway. We simply failed to honor the better nature of our angels. In other words, we literally failed to practice the Art of Wisdom. How do you teach wisdom to the youth of America? Let's quickly introduce them to the better nature of their angels. The bottom line to avoiding the potential tragedies created by the IBOY Factor is to always practice smart and wise behavior, and to actively avoid stupid and foolish behavior. Nevertheless, the youth's drive "to fit in with one's peers" often blinds all perceptions of intelligence and wisdom. Note that the drive "to fit in" is actually love's attributes of being accepted and having a sense of belonging. But encouraging someone to do stupid and foolish behavior is not an act of love. It's a blatant act of antilove.

The proper training of the principles of love provides the best method of ensuring our youth's safe passage into adulthood. All AiT's must learn the loving elements of acceptance and belonging are unconditional and intrinsic values which they are created with. On the contrary, no one should have to please and appease their so called friends so they gain their conditional acceptance and belonging. The choices involved in the IBOY Factor are crystal clear, being black-and-white issues. Youth of America, what is truly better for you? Should you conditionally please and appease your friends by doing stupid and foolish acts that could seriously injure you, or even kill you, or create a detrimental life condition which you must bear the rest of your life? Or on the other hand, should you exercise intelligence and wisdom that provide the maximum good for yourself?

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

In spite of America's collective nature to tolerate this special stage of growing up, we as a People must greatly improve our training, guidance, mentoring and coaching of our AiT's. This is especially true regarding the training and guidance of the sexual matters of life. We need to make it a very high priority to provide "love education" to our young generations, and we must also stress the high importance of respecting and honoring the power of life. Accordingly, we need to make our children wise before their age. And I personally believe this is highly possible. We can begin by teaching our AiT's how to properly respond to the impulsive and irrational behavior of their friends. When asked or enticed to participate in impulsive and irrational behavior, consider replying in this manner: "I've considered your enticement, and it's my better judgment that this impulsive and irrational behavior is not wise or safe. I will not participate in this foolishness, and I hope you'll reconsider your choice to act so unwisely. And I say this because I truly love you." And let this be perfectly clear. This type of response also applies to the enticement of sexual promiscuity where an unsafe sexual act is the potential of conception and then followed by an abortion. Every girl who is enticed and pressured by their horny boy friend should ask him these three very important questions. (1) If I give in to your horny pressures and have sexual intercourse with you, will you still love me tomorrow? (2) If I refuse to give in to your horny pressures and don't have sexual intercourse with you, will you still love me tomorrow? (3) In the event I become pregnant, will you truly love me, stay with me, and properly support me and your child?" In too many of the cases, the horny boy's true answer is this. "Why would I love you tomorrow when I don't really love you today? I'm just horny for you, so let's play like we're two fully mature adults. And I'm definitely not in a position to support you and your child."

In response to the needs of our nation and our youth, we must actively persuade our youth to first choose to be Advocates of Love before they choose any sexual activities that could lead them to choose abortion. While our children have their entire future to look forward to, an aborted child has nothing to look forward to. In addition, teenagers and young adults who have abortions must carry the burden of guilt that automatically comes with abortion. While some women may readily cope with the burden of abortion, many other women do not. And from what I understand, the younger the woman is, or the younger the girl is, then the greater the emotional consequences are. Now, who will help to promote Love's Great Mission? "To every person in every nation, let us teach the principles of love."

Abortion, the Male IBOY Factor, and the Burden to Females

I believe it's true that women bear the brunt of the trials and tribulations of abortion. This is totally unfair and unreasonable to the woman and society as a whole, for the male partner of an aborted fetus is an equal partner of this great offense to our loving Creator. Social

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

responsible sexual relationships are an equal obligation of the male partner as well as the female partner. But much too often all the male really wants to do is “score” and gain “bragging rights” with his buddies. Word then quickly circulates the woman (or girl) is easy and promiscuous, and she then becomes the sexual target of the whole male pack. There’s a natural reason why men are sometimes called wolves. And here’s the saddest offense to the female. Her easy willingness to have sex makes her totally undesirable and unacceptable to be the sexual conquistador’s wife and the mother of his children. Having sex with someone changes everything, and most of the time these changes lead to undesirable consequences. Therefore young ladies, tenaciously protect your virtue until you’re reasonably confident you have found your soul mate and life mate.

The human sex drive is extremely strong in both females and males, but the drive is especially strong in males. And as every adult has learned from life, the sex drive is incredibly strong in young males such as those who are teenagers and in their twenties. At this period of life, the male IBOY Factor is extremely powerful and extremely selfish. All too often, sexual foolishness abounds in this male youth group. And it’s young girls who usually pay the consequences of the young bucks’ foolishness and their drive for selfish sexual conquests. Young women and girls beware! The selfish foolishness of some young men and boys can easily devastate your life. Guard closely your female virtues, and always stay focused upon the virtues of true, sincere and genuine love. Likewise, actively choose to be pious instead of choosing to be popular – for your pious nature represents your sacred nature rather than your secular nature. Pious is not a high and mighty religious matter, but it’s simply a basic element of your innate spiritual nature. What’s wrong with the virtue of piety, and what’s wrong with being pious? Nothing! Absolutely nothing! Pious is good, and secularism is bad. Therefore young maidens, always take the moral high ground, and never compromise your standards of love. Demand the principles of virtue from your male friends and especially your boy friends. Finally, ensure your boy friends are not conditional lovers who’ll deflower you and then abandon you.

I remember from my teenage years having open discussions about sex with my social group. The group included teenage boys and teenage girls. It was the consensus of the group that girls gave sex for love and boys gave love for sex. I know today this is absolutely not true, but we all believed it was true when we were young and foolish. And of course, a male will tell a female he loves her in order to sexually conquer her, but he doesn’t really have any true, sincere and genuine sensations of love. His inner thoughts are: “Wham, bam, thank you mam! Can I come back again?” The foolish and selfish sexual escapades of some men are an immense offense to their own gender. And the saddest part of the matter is that some men never grow up. And many of these men are better known as “dead-beat dads.” If these young male vagabonds don’t really love their female conquests, then how can they really love the human product of their escapades?

The Phileo Phoundation

www.Phileo-Phoundation.com

Women, and especially young women, open your eyes and your minds so you may readily discern these male scoundrels. You can recognize a good man by his respect and courtesy for you as well as other people he encounters. Good and loving young men consistently exercise the principles of love and willfully choose to be an Advocates of Love. Accordingly, pursue love first and allow a sexual relationship to properly and appropriately develop. Furthermore, never do anything that would embarrass your mother and father, or your future children. And never have a sexual relationship unless both of you are willing and prepared to lovingly raise a child in the event of conception. Know this too. There's absolutely nothing wrong with being a virgin, neither a female virgin nor a male virgin. On the contrary, virginity has everything to do with what's right, what's good, and what's honorable. This entire discussion is extremely good and is wise advice that should be embraced and incorporated into the paradigms of your soul. And remember this. When all is said and done, it's your quality of life that's at risk, and only the consistent exercise of true-love can maintain the quality of life that's deserving of an obedient child of our loving Creator. Now, go forth being committed, dedicated and devoted to having a socially responsible sexual relationship with the one you truly and deeply love, both now and forever. And make sure your partner truly and deeply loves you, both now and forever. After all, if your love is not forever, then what good is it?